Dear [REDACTED],

I am Dr. Burl Randolph, Jr., DM, and I would like to donate copies of my Best-Selling book, Inspired, Not Retired: Leadership Lessons from Father to Son, to your library. I am a local author and believe that it is important to have copies available in the local library systems. I requested that your organization carry the book before the COVID-19 pandemic; however, this toll has significantly shifted our focus as a community and a nation.

Inspired, Not Retired is currently available online through Amazon.com, Barnes & Noble.com, and Books-A-Million.com via print on demand. The book is also carried locally through The Book Rack and The Brewed Book. In Inspired, Not Retired, I explore how the relationship between an African American father and son blossomed into mentorship that deeply impacted the son's highly successful leadership style and military career. The positive depiction of an African American father taking an active interest in his son in all aspects- personal, professional, physical, spiritual, moral, financial, and his future is a story that requires expansion throughout the United States.

The pertinent information about the book is as follows:

Title: Inspired, Not Retired: Leadership Lessons from Father to Son

ASIN-10: 1536818461 Published Date: December 5, 2019

Author: Dr. Burl Randolph, Jr., DM

Primary Publisher: Createspace via Kindle Direct Publishing, Amazon.com

The book attained Best Seller status on Kindle in the Fatherhood category for two periods.

I would ask three things if you decide to accept this donation:

1. Provide me with a 501(c)(3) donation receipt to: MyWingman, LLC, 1118 W 60th St, Davenport, IA 52806.
2. Provide me with the Library Reference Number and URL for the book so that I may feature the library as a source on my website.
3. Keep me in mind for Book Readings and Meet the Author Book Seminars.
